SECTION I FINDING AND PURPOSE

The 1986 Surgeon General's Report on "The Health Consequences of Involuntary Smoking" clearly documents that nonsmokers are placed at risk for developing disease as a result of exposure to environmental tobacco smoke (ETS). In January 1993, the Environmental Protection Agency classified ETS as a group A carcinogen, among the most toxic substances known to cause cancer in humans. Group A carcinogens include dioxin, benzene, radon, and asbestos. There is no safe level of exposure to ETS. Numerous studies have found that tobacco smoke is a major contributor to indoor air pollution, and that breathing secondhand smoke is a cause of disease, including lung cancer in nonsmokers. Exposure to environmental tobacco smoke presents a serious and substantial public health risk. Of particular concern is the workplace environment of nonsmokers, where they may be subjected to sustained, involuntary exposure. At special risk are children, elderly people, individuals with cardiovascular disease, and individuals with impaired respiratory function including asthmatics and those with obstructive air-way disease.

Studies have shown that vending machines afford an opportunity for unauthorized sale of cigarettes to minors. Evidence further demonstrates that tobacco is extremely addictive. Approximately 80% of all smokers begin smoking before the age of eighteen and more than 3,000 young people begin smoking every day in this nation.

The Chatham Board of Health finds that the sale of tobacco products is incompatible with the mission of health care providers because it is detrimental to the public health and undermines efforts to educate patients on the safe and effective use of medications.

The U.S. Surgeon General recognized in his 2014 report that a complementary strategy to assist in eradicating tobacco related death and disease is for local governments to ban categories of products from retail sale; and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has reported that the current use of electronic cigarettes, a product sold in dozens of flavors that appeal to youth, among middle and high school students tripled from 2013 to 2014.

Public Beaches and Parks are our most visited natural areas. Smoking bans in these areas will provide environmental, aesthetic and health advantages to our community helping to ensure clean sand and water for our residents and visitors.
